FRANCOIS HOLLANDE AND ANGELA MERKEL AGREED AN INITIATIVE ON THE MIGRANT CRISIS

TO SUBMIT TO EUROPEAN SUMMIT SEPT 14

Paris, Washington DC, 04.09.2015, 02:33 Time

USPA NEWS - France and Germany agree on the principle of "binding quotas" for the reception of migrants from countries of the European Union, said German Chancellor Angela Merkel. President Hollande says the joint proposal of a "permanent mechanism and mandatory" host refugees in Europe.

President Hollande says the joint proposal of a "permanent mechanism and mandatory" host refugees in Europe will be "submitted" on September 14 at a European Council of Ministers of the Interior, before a European summit.

"Today there is an ordeal, in the drama of the refugees. A picture went around the world. It creates an emotion, it is shared. A child who is found drowned on a beach in Turkey because his family wanted to join Greece and then Europe. This is a tragedy, but it is also an inquiry in respect of the European conscience" [?]. Said President Hollande

About the buzz of the photo of the little boy, was found failed in the coasts of Bodrum in Turkey, President Hollande affirms its position and role of the European Union facing these human tragedies: "If the image goes around the world, it must also go around responsibilities. That is why we discussed with Irish Prime Minister. But I had with several heads of state and government, more responsible, and the President of the European Council Donald TUSK, President of the Commission, several exchanges."

He then sorts out things between the hot reaction by emotion caused by this photo and the real actions to implement in the future: "I do not want us to simply remain in the register of emotion that we have a three year old child his brother and not much older than other families, those we do not see. I am referring to the victims who are never photographed, which are ignored, and then on to future victims if we do nothing."

This does not prevent the French head of state to express the values of Europe as we would like it to be consistent with the principles. Speaking as President of the French Republic, it expresses the form of solidarity towards refugees in exile fleeing their war-torn country. Even if it does not coincide with the overall general public opinion in France according to the latest polls. While 56% of French are still hostile to the reception of migrants, according to a poll for BFMTV Elabe published Thursday, September 3. But it was eight points lower than in another survey conducted in early July by Ifop for Figaro. "Civil society is in the process of appropriating a subject that until then seemed Experts" said Mathieu Tardis specialist asylum at the French Institute of International Relations (IFRI).

The President Hollande then recalled the concepts of European values: "Europe is a set of principles, values and particular requires to accommodate those who are driven, seeking refuge because they are persecuted. This family was persecuted, she fled Syria since 2011 where there are more than 4 million people who wander. Some were welcomed in neighbouring countries suffering themselves. I think Jordan, Lebanon I think, I think of Turkey. If we do nothing to fight against the causes, there will be even more people will seek refuge in Europe and elsewhere."

PRESIDENT HOLLANDE CONTACTED THE TURKISH PRESIDENT ERDOGAN AND CHANCELLOR ANGELA MERKEL-----"I also called Turkish President ERDOGAN since that is where it happened the tragedy. This tragedy is also one that can happen, even when I speak, where families are seeking to cross. And I had with Chancellor Merkel for several days, the willingness to take initiative. This initiative is to seize the President of the European Commission, the European Council President, all our partners, so we can implement an immigration policy and hospitality worthy of what we represent when. 'These are people who did not intend to come here and that is human so that refugees may be, whenever possible, when it no other way out, welcomed in Europe.'-----"

Francois Hollande finally presented the first decisions taken in terms of concrete measures to be submitted September 14 for the next European summit: "The measures we are advocating, and which will be subject to a Council of Interior Ministers to be held soon September 14, which will necessarily be followed by the European Council, there are registration centres so that we can receive refugees accompany those who did not intend to be present on our territory; so we can also protect our borders, it is legitimate; so that we can also act towards the country of origin, we can stem the movement of people and treat the very cause of what makes them go and then for us to act on the transit countries, where there has actually risk their lives. And then finally it will allocate these asylum seekers, refugees, I mean those coming from Syria in particular. "
